Organizations/Memberships:

World Genius Directory, American Medical Association, American Psychosomatic Society mentor program, BRAIN High IQ society.

Occupation/Professional Goals:

I am an M.D. with post-doctoral training in behavioral and cardiovascular medicine. I conduct clinical research on serious mental illnesses, specifically involving furthering our understanding of the heart-brain axis. My future goal is to finish my clinical training in psychiatry and merge it with research to reach better diagnostic and treatment modalities.

Why work with IQ:

Internal environment creates our reality. I find great interest in somewhat objective measures to assess abstract abilities such as analysis, problem-solving and fluid and crystallized intelligence. Hence, I am gravitated towards intelligence quotient testing, especially those with a high ceiling.

Goal for IQ as a WGD Ambassador Genius of the Year:

I would like to utilize this opportunity as a WGD ambassador to raise more awareness about mental illnesses that coincides with high levels of intelligence and creativity. Redefining the concept of sanity and furthering our understanding of the premise of terms such as 'gifted' and 'genius'.

Statement for the World:

My philosophical system, if it can be called a system, is based upon 'the ultimate motive'. The ultimate motive is a volition towards the service of Truth itself. Through my endeavors in science, art, philosophy, psychiatry and medicine I strive to get us all closer to that ultimate knowledge. Where I originally come from, Egypt, the 'spirit of truth' is personified as the winged goddess Maat - She soars up in the sky, yet, lands, walks-with and guides those whom dedicate their lives to 'the Truth'. I have found that intelligence, knowledge and wisdom are all paths by which we develop a cognitive capacity to understand the nature of reality, increase our self-awareness, and ultimately, live in peace.
